Dear Mr. Matthewes,

we hereby confirm that staff from the Department of Health have regularly monitored the events of Messe Berlin to ensure that hygienic measures to prevent the transmission of infectious diseases are being applied.

In this respect we have established that sufficient disinfectant dispensers are provided, enabling anyone wishing to disinfect their hands to do so. Notices are available with information about the correct behaviour and recommendations on how to avoid transmitting the New Influenza (swine flu), and leaflets are on display.

Messe Berlin has undertaken all necessary preventive measures. For example, a fact sheet for exhibitors has been produced by Messe Berlin in association with the Department of Health.

No objections have been raised about the hygiene standards.

Dr. Sinn

Deputy Director of the Department of Health
