

Future and Innovation Forum – Future Source Markets
Monday, 14.03.2005, 14:45, Hall 7.1a, Room: New York 1

Prof Dr Egon Smeral
Austrian Institute for Economic Research(WIFO)

Egon Smeral is a university professor and an economic researcher at the Austrian Institute for Economic Research (WIFO) in Vienna; he practises his teaching activities at the University of Economics of Vienna and at the University of Innsbruck. His main research themes include applied economic theories and politics with specialisation in various tourism areas, econometrics and forecasting methods, preparation and assessment of tourism-political programmes and market strategies. Besides his main occupation, Egon Smeral is also a member of the Professional Advisory Board for Economic Statistics, consultant for the Federal Ministry of Economy and Labour (BMWA) and a consultant for the World Tourism Organisation (WTO). Moreover, Smeral is a member of the executive board of the «International Association of Scientific Experts in Tourism» (AIEST) and the vice president of the «International Academy for the Study of Tourism (IAST). Aside from his intensive national and international publication and presentation activities, Smeral partakes in various editorial functions for a few prestigious scientific professional journals (Annals of Tourism Research, Journal of Travel Research, Tourism Review, Tourismus Journal).

Further information about Egon Smeral: www.wifo.ac.at/Egon.Smeral